

SUM UP FOR SENATOR ALDREY

CONGER AND MOE CALLED THE WICKEDEST OF MEN.

Carr and Littleton insist that bribery hasn't been proved. All a diabolical plot—jury is asked to forget politics and acquit on the evidence.

ALBANY, March 22.—Tears rolled down the cheeks of Senator Jotham P. Aldrey today when Lewis E. Carr, the first of his counsel to sum up, pleaded with the State Senate not to throw Aldrey overboard, either to satisfy the clamor of the people, but to restore to his aged mother at Norwich "a son to be to her mother the future as in the past, the pride of her heart and the joy of her remaining life."

The Senate chamber was packed as it has not been before at the Aldrey trial. On the floor were as many women as Senators, and their opportunity came when after a brilliant argument for the accused Senator Mr. Carr brought in the "aged mother." Then the handkerchiefs came out and the impression Mr. Carr's summing up made on the jury was apparent.

Mr. Carr consumed all morning with his argument. Mr. Littleton took the afternoon embellishing the points that Mr. Carr had pointed out to the Senate with great care but in modulated tones, unlike the pyrotechnic oratory of Littleton. He arose from his seat this morning after an illness of three days.

Mr. Carr referred to the Sun to jury as "the tapers of fact." He denounced Carr's going into the graves of the dead to find names of men long since dead to back up an atrocious lie, charged with spite and bitter enmity by Congressmen Senator Aldrey.

Mr. Carr insisted that Carr was so sure he would not let his dead brother Frank go, but he dragged him into the case along with other dead men like Deacon Moe and the late Senator Thomas C. Platt, then the Republican party boss in this State.

In their arguments Mr. Carr and Mr. Littleton insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that accomplice Moe was not corroborated in any manner, nor was accomplice Carr. They said the Carr brothers at Groton found an old check for $5,000 and immediately resolved when the Aldrey story was sprung to connect this with the bribery fund. It was for this reason, the attorneys asserted, Deacon Moe said he brought $5,000 to Albany, while only $5,000 was testified to by Carr and Moe as having been distributed.

They insisted that the check stub had been changed in the past year; that Carr's counsel suspected that the stub had been doctored and that, having perceived conclusively that it had been doctored, Carr and Moe had decided to use it as evidence.

The particular point emphasized by Mr. Carr and Mr. Littleton was that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

They insisted that Carr and Moe had conspired to build up the story of bribery against Aldrey, that their declarations on the stand were unqualifiedly false, that their testimony lacked corroboration in any form, and lacked especially the corroboration the law demands must be given the testimony of an accomplice.

New York's Gas Supply Has Never Failed In 87 Years

At that time it was made from the resin of the pine, and the crude methods embodied in its manufacture made it extremely expensive.

Since that time New York has grown in population from 125,000 to nearly 5,000,000. The pioneers in the making of gas foresaw the coming growth of the city and established the policy of making ample provision for future needs.

As a result, New York's gas supply has always been adequate. It has never failed during 87 years.

As the gas industry developed, and the product became of better quality, its use grew by leaps and bounds till at the present time the gas service is perhaps the most necessary public service in New York. Gas provides light and heat and power. It cooks a large proportion of the city's food, heats its water and brightens its homes.

The dependable nature of New York's gas service is one of the silent factors which has contributed in no small degree to the comfort and safety of the city's millions.

Hand in hand with the improvement in gas service has come improvement in gas appliances. Gas consumers have benefited therefrom, not only in the way of added convenience but through economy of gas consumption.

Are you familiar with the modern gas appliances? If not, let us give you complete information.

Consolidated Gas Company of New York

GEO. B. CORTLYOU, President.

New York in 1823 Below 14th Street

In 1823 gas for lighting purposes was first introduced in New York.

At that time it was made from the resin of the pine, and the crude methods embodied in its manufacture made it extremely expensive.

Since that time New York has grown in population from 125,000 to nearly 5,000,000. The pioneers in the making of gas foresaw the coming growth of the city and established the policy of making ample provision for future needs.

As a result, New York's gas supply has always been adequate. It has never failed during 87 years.

As the gas industry developed, and the product became of better quality, its use grew by leaps and bounds till at the present time the gas service is perhaps the most necessary public service in New York. Gas provides light and heat and power. It cooks a large proportion of the city's food, heats its water and brightens its homes.

The dependable nature of New York's gas service is one of the silent factors which has contributed in no small degree to the comfort and safety of the city's millions.

Hand in hand with the improvement in gas service has come improvement in gas appliances. Gas consumers have benefited therefrom, not only in the way of added convenience but through economy of gas consumption.

Are you familiar with the modern gas appliances? If not, let us give you complete information.

Consolidated Gas Company of New York

GEO. B. CORTLYOU, President.

B. Altman & Co.

ARE SHOWING A VARIETY OF ARTICLES, SUITABLE FOR GIFT PURPOSES, AS FOLLOWS:

LEATHER GOODS & STATIONERY NOVELTIES

INCLUDING PURSES AND CARD CASES, SHOPPING BAGS AND PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY CASES; DRESSING CASES AND AUTOMOBILE BAGS. MEN'S WALLET, CIGAR AND CIGARETTE CASES. DESK AND LIBRARY TABLE REQUIREMENTS. PAPETERIES AND IMPORTED STATIONERY IN DELICATE TINTS.

SILVERWARE & JEWELRY NOVELTIES. GOLD AND SILVER MESH BAGS, PURSES AND VANITY CASES. LORNETTES, FINGER CHATELAINES AND ORNAMENTS; NOVELTY HAT PINS; AMBER AND TORTOISE SHELL HAIR PINS. LAPEL GUARDS, FANS, OPERA GLASSES AND BAGS. LACE PLATEAUX AND FLOWER HOLDERS. ARTICLES IN STERLING SILVER AND SILVER DEPOSIT.

ART OBJECTS AND BRIC-A-BRAC

VASES, CLOCKS, CANDELABRA AND FERN TRAYS. DRESDEN ORNAMENTS. FRENCH AND VIENNA PORCELAIN. BONBONNIERES, FLOWER TRAYS AND COMPOTIERS OF CUT CRYSTAL. JAPANESE CARVED IVORIES. JARDINIERS, FANCY TEA TABLES, TABOURETS AND STANDS, ELECTRIC LAMPS.

B. Altman & Co.

WILL OFFER THE FOLLOWING AT SPECIAL PRICES THIS DAY (WEDNESDAY) MARCH 23D:

2,000 PAIRS OF MEN'S & WOMEN'S HOSIERY

WOMEN'S PLAIN BLACK SILK HOSE WITH EITHER SILK OR COTTON SOLES, USUALLY $1.35 AT $1.00 PER PAIR

WOMEN'S BLACK SILK EMBROIDERED HOSE, USUALLY $2.50 AT $1.85 PER PAIR

MEN'S SILK HALF-HOSE, IN COLORS, WITH COTTON SOLES, USUALLY $1.25 AT 90c. PER PAIR

WOMEN'S LISLE THREAD HOSE IN BLACK, AND MEN'S MERCERIZED LISLE THREAD HALF-HOSE, IN COLORS, USUALLY $3.00 AT $1.90 PER HALF DOZEN PAIRS

THERE WILL ALSO BE PLACED ON SALE, LINENS AT SPECIAL PRICES

LINEN DAMASK TABLE CLOTHS EACH, $1.75, 2.25 & 3.90

DINNER NAPKINS TO MATCH PER DOZ., $2.65 & 4.90

HEMSTITCHED LINEN SHEETS PER PAIR, $4.25 & 5.50

HEMSTITCHED LINEN PILLOWCASES PER PAIR, $1.10, 1.20 & 1.40

HEMSTITCHED LINEN HUCK TOWELS PER DOZ., $4.00 & 5.25

AND HEMMED BATH TOWELS PER DOZ., $2.65, 3.50 & 4.00

Fifth Avenue, 34th and 35th Streets, New York.

John Jameson Whiskey

SOME people think that the goodness of whiskey is all a matter of taste. John Jameson Three Star Whiskey is for discerning drinkers who know better. A quality whiskey, unique in flavor, purity and effectiveness. W. A. Taylor & Co., Agents, New York.

At the annual banquet of the Aero Club of America at the St. Regis to-morrow evening the speakers will be Brig.-Gen. James Allen, Prof. A. Lawrence Rotch, J. Sloot Fassett, Glenn H. Curtiss, Major-Gen. Leonard Wood, F. N. Doubleday, Charles Giddens, James L. Slayden and Joseph A. Lawson, Albany.

NEW BROADWAY BUILDING.

Twelve Story Structure to Be Erected at Astor Place.

Francis H. Kimball, an architect for the O. B. Potter Trust, owner of the Empire Building at 71 Broadway, filed plans yesterday with Building Superintendent Miller for the new twelve story and basement commercial building for the Trust to be erected at the southeast corner of Broadway and Astor place, adjoining the original O. B. Potter up-town office building on the old Lafayette place corner. The new building will have a Broadway frontage of 92.1 feet and will replace the two old fashioned mansard brick buildings, in one of which the New York headquarters of the Department of Labor was located after its establishment under the late Commissioner Wright.

The new building will be in the Renaissance style, with facades of decorated limestone at the first three stories and brick trimmed with terra cotta above. The front will be finished with tall pilasters and arched bays at the top three stories. It is to cost $350,000.

Speakers for Aero Club Banquet.

At the annual banquet of the Aero Club of America at the St. Regis to-morrow evening the speakers will be Brig.-Gen. James Allen, Prof. A. Lawrence Rotch, J. Sloot Fassett, Glenn H. Curtiss, Major-Gen. Leonard Wood, F. N. Doubleday, Charles Giddens, James L. Slayden and Joseph A. Lawson, Albany.

John Jameson Whiskey

SOME people think that the goodness of whiskey is all a matter of taste. John Jameson Three Star Whiskey is for discerning drinkers who know better. A quality whiskey, unique in flavor, purity and effectiveness. W. A. Taylor & Co., Agents, New York.

VICHY CELESTINS

Standard Alkaline Natural Water

A Delightful Table Water with Highly Medicinal Qualities

Standard Remedy for Dyspepsia, Stomach Troubles and Gout

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken last evening an unaccompanied man who appeared to be waiting for a train fell upon the concrete floor, and when Dr. Sullivan of the emergency hospital in Hoboken attended him he was found to be dead. There were letters in his pockets addressed to Gustav H. Konike at 214 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, and also a Masonic card bearing the name of the deceased. The body was taken to the morgue.

At the Lackawanna Terminal.

Fell Dead in Railroad Station.

At the Lackawanna Terminal in